

INDIGO Series

With the Indigo bedroom Quax offers a wide range of furniture with a long-lasting use in mind. Without any worries because where necessary these pieces of furniture were tested by internationally recognized authorities for EN-716 for cots and EN-12221 for changing tables.

In order to achieve this Quax uses durable materials, for example no chipboard but high-density Mdf, well-known for its intrinsic stability and strength. These boards meet the strict E1-standard regarding formaldehyde emission. Do not forget that natural wood too contains formaldehyde. We support durable forestry and ask our suppliers to submit the PEFC and FSC certificates. Special care also goes to the furniture fittings. Only reputable suppliers provide us with, among others, quality slides for the drawers and reliable connecting techniques, including particular attention for eccentricities, necessary for connecting the parts which have a great supporting power. Quax does not use self-rotating screws because they obstruct the dismantling and re-assembly of furniture. The lacquer finish also gets our full attention : we only work with international quality suppliers such as Akzo Nobel and not with local producers. These suppliers are responsible for the certificates for their products, for example EN 71-3 with attention for the migration of harmful components.

Design also plays an important role in the business philosophy of Quax. For the Indigo bedroom for example the bars are milled out in the Mdf board, which does not only contribute to the fancy nature of this range but also to the sturdiness of the side-frames, not comparable to traditional bars. The undercarriage has been given special attention and is made of solid beech, which makes colour differences possible, depending on the tree's habitat. They reflect the richness of the natural product and must therefore be regarded as normal. The frame's finish with a quality oil may emphasize these shade differences. The charm of the natural patina is the guarantee of the natural product.

The cots can be converted into bench, something which your toddlers will certainly appreciate.

The series includes cots 120x60 cm, 140x70 cm with optional bedrail and beds 200x90 cm, a 3-drawer chest with optional changing extension, two- or three-door wardrobe and a night table.

As part of the Quax Inclusive Design, we offer a wide range of matching accessories to enchant the children's room with a wow factor - Be Inspired.
